Dear All,

I hope this mail finds you well. The committee has allotted two mentors to each first-year student; we have tried our best to consider the preferences per the google form circulated earlier. The ones who have not submitted the form or have been admitted after the form was circulated have been allocated mentors using a randomised method.

We have circulated the names and email ids of the first-year students to the respective mentors; the committee has requested the mentors to initiate contact via email. However, you can interact using any other form of communication at your convenience. We have not circulated phone numbers to prevent misuse and protect the privacy of the students. If your mentors have not contacted you within 48 hours, don't hesitate to get in touch with one of the SRSWC or Academic Committee members.

FINALLY, The committee would also use this as an opportunity to reiterate that the disciplinary rules pertaining to Ragging, Prohibited Activities, Discrimination based on religion, race, caste, sex, place of birth, sexual orientation and Sexual Harassment are still applicable in all interactions between the students, even in a virtual semester, and in an online-only mode of communication. The policies governing such issues can be found here. Please contact the committee immediately in case of any issues on this.

We are attaching the list of allotments and the contact details of the seniors.

Further, if you have any language issues, we will try allocating a mentor who can communicate in the same language. Additionally, the students from the SAARC Nations may contact the committee if they would like a mentor from their respective countries.

General note to all: Write to us or contact any of the committee members in case of any difficulties with any mentors; your communication shall be treated with the utmost confidentiality

You may contact any of the following or mail to srswc@nalsar.ac.in

2/18/2021 2:47:44	prathamshah@nalsar.ac.in	Jai Agarwal	4	He was great at advising in projects and academics.	Could not build the rapport with him, may be because he has two mentees or something. Haven't seen him approaching from his end.	It's been good but I'd have been more satisfied had I been allotted one mentor from 4th or 5th year as well. Because having both of the mentors from same grade limits the opportunities	Yes	Not an arbitrary allotment would be better. If each one of the first years will be allotted two mentors, it would be of great help if one is from 2nd/3rd year and one from 4th/5th year. This, in turn, helps the students to get advices from more experienced seniors as well as immediate seniors.

I was also helped immensely as my mentor provided his project for a help of reference to help me. More than that, I was able to cope through my first sem because of his constant guidance and motivation, let it be related to answer structure or exam preparation.	able to astutely provide cunning details about the several teachers, aiding me for preparation in the subjects.	Harsh Dudhe	5	The online semester may lead to a significant amount of alienation, but thanks to him, I was able to feel more involved in the process. He encouraged me to participate and was down to a lot of needed discussion on the university, and the academic advice. The specific area that I was helped in was on how I should approach the first sem, to stay ahead while I still have time to premeditate.	Great amount of help in terms of knowing the subjects, teachers and the experience of the campus. Very unresponsive and unapproachable later on.	Initially helpful with advice on teachers. However, would take exceeding long times to get back to me, to the extent where the advice would be pointless. Very unresponsive and unapproachable later on.	Not great. Both mentors helped with the project, and at times gave useful advice on teachers. However both became very unresponsive and queries remained unanswered later on. Did not expect them to proactively engage with me, but they had no enthusiasm or useful advice on college, coupled with the fact that they would take a ton of time to get back to me even if they did respond. Advice remained restricted to what I asked them, and while it may be unfair to expect more, general advice.	Only if the mentor seeks to be helpful.	It would be great if it is made sure that mentors are actually interested in mentoring and have the time and patience for it, and that there is some threshold in enrolling them as mentors given that in my experience they don't have time for mentees. Especially counterproductive when mentees do not have access to many other seniors and mentors prove unreliable. Mentors might not be consistently reliable, and thus there have to be efforts in gauging whether a mentor is a fit for the program.

She always walks an extra mile and goes out of her way to help me out in cases where she feels that she is unequipped to personally give me suggestions; I appreciate this a lot.	Often, she makes sure to check up on me, which is very kind of her. I feel comfortable with her, always.	Abhi Uday Singh Gautam	5	He has been extremely helpful, especially where I have faced issues related to academics, projects, academic writing and advice regarding extra-curriculars. He makes it a point to answer my doubts, even if at times he keeps busy and reverts after a while (which is completely understandable).	He puts in significant efforts to help me with my doubts and issues; I have learnt a lot, thanks to him.	My experience has been great. At times, it is difficult to communicate, especially in an online semester. However, very rarely have I faced such a situation or felt hesitant to reach out to either of my mentors. Both of them are supportive and present when I need them.	Yes	As far as my knowledge goes, each first year is usually allotted just 1 mentor, which has not been the case with my batch. I believe a 2-mentor system is more helpful, and should be continued.
